

Michael Bortolotto's Introduction To Be Used For Your Events.

Michael Standard Introduction.

(To be read out loud to your audience)

Michael Bortolotto is a professional speaker with 40 years of experience, delivering inspirational keynotes and educational presentations across Canada and the United States of America. An accomplished communicator, he has won numerous Toastmasters competitions and continues to inspire and educate his audiences with his message of being a positive rebel, using adversity to build resiliency, and how a simple smile can foster social inclusion, diversity, and equity.

He was honoured with the Cathleen Lyle Murray Award from the American Academy of Cerebral Palsy and Developmental Medicine, the Paul Harris Fellowship Award from Rotary International, and was named one of the Top 10 Entrepreneurs with a Disability by Community Futures B.C. and Western Diversity Corporation.

In addition to his speaking career, Michael is the author of children's storybooks that promote kindness, social inclusion, resiliency, persistence, and the positive rebel's mindset.

Michael has been married to his beautiful Dorothy for 17th years, and they have two children, daughter Natasha and son Quintin.

Michael Will Customize An Introduction For You.

If Michael's standard introduction does not align with the nature of your event, he will gladly prepare and provide a customized introduction tailored to your group's needs and the topic you have selected for him to present.

Michael School Introduction.

(To be read out loud to your students)

Michael Bortolotto is a professional speaker who has been inspiring and educating students in more than 5,400 schools throughout North America for the past 40 years.

Throughout his four-decade speaking career, he has empowered students from Kindergarten to grade 12 with practical strategies to create more inclusive, diverse, equitable, and safer schools, beginning with a simple smile and a powerful smile. Michael also teaches students to view adversity not as a challenge or obstacle, but as an opportunity to strengthen their resilience so they can reach for greater success. Finally, he challenges his student audience to rebel against their own negative thinking, self-imposed limitations, and fears - encouraging them to become "Positive Rebels who courage, confidence, common sense thinking, and productive action in pursuit of success.

In addition to his speaking career, Michael is the author of children's storybooks that promote kindness, social inclusion, resiliency, persistence, and the positive rebel's mindset. Michael has been married to his beautiful Dorothy for 17th years, and they have two children, daughter Natasha and son Quintin.

Michael Will Customize An Introduction For You.

If Michael's standard introduction does not align with the focus of your school's event, Michael will gladly prepare and provide a customized introduction tailored specifically to your student's needs and the topic you have selected for him to present.